

The Newly Redesigned PR600 Mobile Fall Protection System

Protective Roofing Products LTD is the Original Manufacturer of the Mobile Fall Protection System. They have been the leading innovator of fall protection in the roofing industry since 1991. Their lightweight systems are rugged, durable, and designed to be used many times over. Each system has been designed for easy installation and dismantling.

All of their products have met and exceeded the standards set out by OSHA and OSH by way of physical testing through Warnock and Hershey, a world leading testing agency.

The PR600 mobile anchoring system that provides fall protection for up to 3 people, with 2 for fall arrest and 1 for fall restraint, has recently undergone a redesign. The NEW PR600 mobile fall protection system is now lighter and easier to assemble and disassemble. The reduction in weight also makes the system easier to lift over ducts and piping that may lay over the roofs work surface. The component parts of the PR600 can even be taken up to the roof in an elevator for ease of use. Safety does remain the key; the redesigned PR600 still offers the same amount of fall protection, using the safety function that if a worker falls over the edge, specially designed pivot points dig into the roof and the ballast weight (which now all comes complete with the system) resists the overturning moment, arresting the fall of the worker.

The PR600 continues to be the optimal choice for:

- Removing and installing coping
- Tear off and installation of leading edge
- Removal and replacement of in-field roof deck
- Installing or dismantling edge guardrail systems
- Working around roof openings
- Removing or installing covers or skylights

Subsequently due to the redesign of the PR600 Mobile Fall Protection System the cost of the PR600 has been reduced. Visit www.prplimited.com for more information.
